

For Immediate Release

AndroScience Corporation Selected to Present at the Fall 2005 RTA / CONNECT Venture Roundtable

San Diego, September 12, 2005 – AndroScience Corporation today announced that it has been chosen to present at “RTA / CONNECT Venture Roundtable” on September 22, 2005.

AndroScience (www.androscience.com) is one of a select group of high-caliber growth companies invited to participate in the annual conference sponsored by RTA/CONNECT, which is widely regarded as the nation's most successful regional program linking very-early-stage high-technology and life science entrepreneurs with the resources they need for success. This premier investment forum provides VC and private-equity investors, institutional and hedge funds, and technology executives an early look at many of the most exciting companies in Southern California.

“We’re delighted to be presenting at this prestigious event, which will attract numerous high tech and life sciences investors, entrepreneurs, and high-level executives. This conference gives us high-level exposure to future funding sources as well as potential strategic partnerships,” noted Charles Shih, PhD, CEO and Andrew Loh, PhD, COO of AndroScience Corporation. “The exposure to blue-chip funding entities is priceless.”

The RTA/CONNECT Venture Roundtable continues to bridge the gap between promising companies and capital providers. It’s an ideal way for start-ups to get exposure and engage a roomful of venture capitalists and potential investors. In turn, capital providers gain access to pre-screened companies with commercially viable technologies, all in a single day.”

The program will be held on September 21/22, 2005 at the Heller Ehrman Conference Room, San Diego. For more information on attending or accessing presenting company profiles, please go to www.connect.org